

doc. Ing. Pavel Ircing, Ph.D., University of West Bohemia

How can the latest AI techniques improve the accessibility of historical resources?

The talk will present the latest AI techniques developed and/or modified at our department in order to improve access to the vast amount of archived historical resources. Those include mainly the spoken archives containing oral histories but also archives of scanned documents with a rich variety of information which would be otherwise buried in the pile of recorded speech and scanned pictures.